Introduction

Workforce development provides opportunities to connect, train and educate residents for careers that help businesses and our economy to thrive. Youth and young adults' exposure to these opportunities are critical to the talent pipeline needed for a strong economy. North Carolina's 23 workforce development boards continue to incorporate new strategies to remove roadblocks and engage young adults ages 16 to 24 who face barriers to employment.

Implementation of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) includes five components for WIOA programming to interconnect the 14 WIOA required youth elements and ensure participants are prepared for career success through:

- » education;
- » career pathways;
- » career experience;
- » leadership development; and
- » wraparound services.

By coordinating efforts and working collaboratively with other agencies to best serve these young adults, North Carolina workforce development boards achieved the following Federal performance success for participants in PY 2017¹:

- » 72.2 percent were employed within six months.
- » 72.3 percent remained employed after 1 year.
- » 50.9 percent who participated in training earned a credential.

Thousands of young adults have found the training and skills needed to enter the workforce and grow in careers they love. North Carolina workforce development boards are committed to ensuring the success of the WIOA youth and young adult program so that we continue to play a role in empowering young adults and bolstering our state's ever-growing workforce.

Success Stories

Cape Fear WDB

Kayla Clewis

Kayla enrolled in our program at the age of 20. She was in distress and was dealing with a lot of personal challenges in her life. A high school dropout, she was a single parent with no support system. With the help of the Cape Fear Workforce Development Board, she completed the GED program at an accelerated pace, obtained her driver's license, and is attending Southeastern Community College in the Office Administration program. She applied for a work experience opportunity at the Division of Aging and, upon a successful interview, was selected for this position. Kayla used to live in the past and talk about the mistakes she had made. Now she focuses on making good choices and her future holds endless possibilities. This is how WIOA Title I Youth program can change lives of our young people one individual at a time. She is now more optimistic about life overall and has a sense of independence and determination to be self-sufficient and have a career.

Edquon Davis

Edquon Davis heard about the WIOA Title I Youth program while taking a Welding Fundamentals Class at Cape Fear Community College. A quiet and well-mannered young man, his goal was to complete all of the courses in the welding program. However, unemployment and budget restraints became barriers to accomplishing his goal. After completion of his first course, Edquon enrolled in the Out-of-School Youth Program with the assistance of the Cape Fear Workforce Development Board. He received funding for three welding courses - MIG, STICK and TIG. Upon successful completion of these classes, Edquon obtained certification in all three areas.

Edquon became employed as a sales representative for a local Advance Auto Parts store. Still in training, he kept all of his appointments and stayed focused on completing his courses. On the day he graduated, Edquon explored job openings at the Pender County NCWorks Career Center with the assistance of his Youth Advocate. Additionally, with the aid of the local Business Services Representative, he explored the local job market and received resume assistance. In January 2018, all his hard work and determination paid off. Edquon was hired as a full-time employee of Vertex Railcar Corporation earning $20.00/hour plus benefits. His future looks bright and the Cape Fear Local Area is proud to share his success story.

Odilia Espinoza

Like many young adults, Odilia Espinoza, was undecided about what her next steps were after graduating from high school. She was seeking an employment opportunity and was having a hard time obtaining a position due to not having enough experience. "When I first met Odilia she was quiet and a little nervous around other people" stated her former Youth Advocate, Bianca Harris. However, once Odilia enrolled into the NCWorks NextGen Program, that all changed. Odilia began to come out of her shell and her confidence increased as she attended career readiness workshops, updated her resume and successfully participated in mock interviews. NextGen staff quickly noticed that Odilia was a promising candidate for a paid internship opportunity.

During her time with NCWorks NextGen, Odilia participated in two work experiences (WEX) at Wake County Human Services. One in the Family Services Department and the other as an assistant to the Director at the Millbrook Center. Some of Odilia's duties included: answering phones, filing documentation, creating flyers, translating documents and preparing agendas, for the management team plus the Community Advisory Committee (CAC). Through this experience, Odilia began to network and her efforts did not go unnoticed. She applied to the Wake County Human Services Energy Assistance Department and was offered a temporary position.

After the temporary position ended, Odilia was able to utilize her experience, plus internal references and recommendations to obtain a permanent position at Wake County Human Services as a Customer Service Representative. Like many other young adults, Odilia's journey in the Workforce started off challenging. However, with consistent encouragement, from NCWorks NextGen, preparation and the right tools she was able to secure employment. Now, the sky is the limit for her and her future.

Tekayla Jackson

Tekayla Jackson embodies all the characteristics that staff at the NCWorks NextGen Career Center hope to instill in all of their program participants. Tekayla first enrolled at the career center in Smithfield in June 2017 with the hope of becoming a certified medical assistant. Tekayla's prior work history had mainly centered around jobs in customer service and sales. Tekayla knew she liked working and interacting with people, but she wanted to do more. She wanted to really make a difference helping people, as well as obtain a career that could support her and her son.

With a high school diploma and associate of arts already under her belt, Tekayla registered for a distance learning program at San Joaquin Valley College. Along with her course work Tekayla needed to receive the hands-on training required to become a certified medical assistant. Through her own hard-work and determination, as well as some help from the staff at NextGen, Tekayla was able to start a work experience as a medical assistant at the Benson Area Medical Center.

During Tekayla's time at the clinic she trained on various tasks such as measuring and recording vital signs, gathering patient history for the provider, assisting with patient care, performing intramuscular injections and EKG's, and obtaining lab specimens. Even though Tekayla was learning new skills in a fast-paced environment she was "always eager to learn, always had a smile and a great attitude," according to Kristy Southerland, the clinical nurse supervisor at Benson Area Medical Center. Kristy says, "Tekayla grew so much since she started. She showed more confidence in her skills and overall settled in well with our group." Tekayla was definitely missed by staff at the clinic following the completion of her work experience.

Tekayla is now a registered medical assistant with a permanent position working at Duke Health Center of Clayton. She is not only advancing her medical skills, but also continuing her education. Tekayla plans to return to school to complete a bachelor's of science in nursing and prepare for a future career as a registered nurse. With the support of her family and the staff at NextGen always behind her, we know she will be able to reach this goal in no time

Caitlyn McLamb

Caitlyn first came to the NextGen Career Center in July 2013 when she was just 18 years old. She was fresh out of high school and seeking assistance with identifying a career pathway. Before enrolling with NextGen, her work history was limited to brief and mainly retail positions. Caitlyn enjoyed working with people, and wanted to find a career pathway where she could make a positive impact. After working with NextGen staff and through personal reflection and exploration, she became determined to begin a career in the healthcare industry. NextGen began using its resources to help Caitlyn's aspirations become reality. The road has been long, but Caitlyn has proven her dedication to success. "Her tremendous work ethic and positive attitude has always shown during her time as a participant in our youth program," says Amanda Tyndall, Caitlyn's career counselor.

After completing coursework at Johnston Community College in October 2013, Caitlyn was ready to start a Certified Nursing Assistant work experience position at Home Health Care in Smithfield. She was provided the necessary training to properly care for patients. Caitlyn would read and record every patient's vitals, aid them with any treatments needed and assist with their daily living activities. She was working hard to gain the necessary experience for working with patients and also learning the various roles in the healthcare field. With some short time off to start a family, Caitlyn was soon back in the workforce. In September 2015, she started a work experience at the SECU Hospice House in Smithfield as a Unit Secretary, completing various administrative duties and handling room accommodations for all patients.

With another new addition to her family, Caitlyn was able to take a brief step back from working to do some career exploration and really determine what career path was right for her. While she wanted to remain in healthcare, her experiences and personal interests led her to choose dentistry as the next step in her career pathway. Caitlyn enrolled in courses at Wake Tech and took a major step in her career by completing a work experience through NextGen as a Dental Assistant at Clayton Pediatric Dentistry.

Caitlyn trained on dental tool sterilization and room preparation procedures, while also learning the delicate skill of working with children. Caitlyn continues to balance school and life as mother and wife, as she moves forward in her dental assisting program. With the support of her family and the NextGen staff, along with some hard work and determination, Caitlyn is on the road to having a successful career.

Charlotte Works WDB

Khadaijah Krider

I joined the Work and Learn program in October of 2016. Before I talk about my journey in the program, I would like to tell you a little about my background. At sixteen years-old, I found out I was pregnant! At sixteen I wasn't scared, believe it or not I was motivated. I fought and skipped school majority of the time, my son was going to be my reason to get myself together. Kamari was born in April of 2011 ... July of 2011 my son's father passed away. At that moment reality had set in, I was going to be a SINGLE TEEN MOTHER. I was no longer motivated or focused. I dropped out of school and struggled mentally, life was heavy for me at a young age. At 18 I got myself together, applied for a warehouse job and found myself dedicating time and energy into a job that I couldn't grow in. After 3 long years, I decided I wanted more. Not only for me but for my son. I came to this "AWESOME" campus and with patience, I got my GED at 21. I walked across the stage and knew I wanted to keep going. So, I finally left my warehouse job and started working for a security company on the weekends. My sister who is currently in the Work and Learn program, gave me a flyer. In October of 2016 I went through the intake process. A week later I started my soft skills course, Adair was the teacher at the time and he knew I was awesome. Seriously, Adair knew my morning routine and I still made it to class on time. I wanted this! I went through the soft skills course, took the CRC's, and even took an additional math course with Mr. Lincoln. At times I was frustrated! I felt I was ready to jump into a field, but eventually I understood there's a process to everything. It gave me time to figure out what I really wanted to do. I started my CNA course in January of this year, at Umanah Healthcare Institute. Iris Grady, who is my career advisor called and asked me to present this brilliant idea of doing an internship with Mrs. Umanah. I presented it, and 2 weeks into my CNA course I started my internship. So now I was a student, handling 2 jobs with a child. By April I completed my CNA 1, Med Aide, and Phlebotomy courses. It was not the easiest thing to do but with a great support team it got done! The program was not all work, we had some great moments. I walked across the stage again at 22. I've attended celebrations, shopping trips, CIAA events, basketball games, and even trips. Speaking of trips, Mrs. Grady invited me to attend a youth summit in Cary, NC, this was not too long after I completed my courses. I explained to Mrs. Grady, I'm not sure if I'd be able to attend as my security job might not let me go. I eventually agreed. As soon as we pulled to our hotel in Cary, my supervisor at the time called me and said

"Ms. Krider, we won't need you next weekend, I'm letting you go!". It was bittersweet, but I knew it was time for something better. In June of this year I was hired on full-time with Umanah. Currently employed as an administrative assistant. And working as a part-time CNA at a home healthcare agency. Before any title I'm a MOTHER. My point is you may go through things that you don't understand but trust your journey. This is a GREAT program with amazing opportunities. Put in the work, and I promise IT WILL NOT GO UNNOTICED!

Khamiah Alderman

Ms. Alderman is unique. She is a bright student, full of promise, purpose and poise but she carries within herself an altruistic appeal that is truly admirable. She understands people. She is a young millennial who remains on the pulse of what concerns people today. She is a well rounded, grounded and mature young lady. She is currently maintaining above a 4.0 GPA while holding positions in multiple organizations. She is a College Ambassador, a tutor at the Unierstiy Regional library, a MeckEd volunteer with Carolina Healthcare Systems University Hospital and secretary for both the Key Club and the Vance student council. While she is involved in so many extra-curricular activities, she still has a major focus on her academic health. She excels in all subjects but favors English. She is well known by teachers and staff as a model student in and outside of the classroom.

Career Pathways Advisor learned of the student's interest in becoming a pediatric surgeon and forged a relationship with a current partner, Carolinas Healthcare Systems to coordinate an internship opportunity for the student to intern with a medical facility. During this work experience the student gained invaluable knowledge of the working environment within the medical field. Khamiah has completed more than 8 weeks successfully exploring the various departments within the hospital but favors the Maternity department. She has received glowing reviews from staff members within the Maternity department where she has spent most of her time. At the end of her work experience, she received a "mastered satisfaction" in all areas.

Ms. Alderman is a great student and has been involved in numerous activities, is a huge fan of reading and has volunteered her time with Promising Pages and the Public Library. She continues to strive for greatness in and outside of the classroom. Khamiah has a desire to improve her condition in life through hard work, determination, acceptance of personal responsibility and grit. She operates with a “there is always room to improve” mindset. This is proven by attending tutoring sessions for classes, not due to failing grades but to ensure that she stays on top of her studies. Knowing Khamiah’s love for reading and the English subject and speaking with her English teacher gave me an even clearer idea of what type of student she really is. She stated that early in the school year, Khamiah felt like she was “going through the motions” in previous English classes, but now taking AP English, it requires her to think about language and writing differently. For example, Khamiah’s fall semester current event presentation was so well synced with video and real time verbal commentary that students realized weaknesses in their own presentations. This resulted in each student visiting the teacher to receive impromptu presentation feedback. Ultimately, Khamiah has been an inspiration to others in her class.

Khamiah is currently one of the top Juniors in her class at Vance High School in Charlotte NC. She is continuing in her internship with the Carolina Healthcare System working within the Maternity department....the future looks bright!!!

Lovell and his family moved into the Lexington area in the middle of October 2017. Due to the timing of his move, the local school advised him to enroll into the Get REAL Program instead of waiting until the next semester.

Tevin Guasp

Tevin is originally from the Bronx, New York, and before settling in Durham, NC with his mother and two younger sisters, he has lived in many other states, including a stay with his grandmother in South Carolina. Tevin enrolled in the YES program in 2012, after dropping out of Hillside High School in his junior year. Although Tevin has faced challenges in his life that would make many young people give up, Tevin has made it a point not only to not give up, but to take those challenges and turn them into learning opportunities. Tevin could have given up a long time ago, but with support from his family, friends, and community programs such as NCWorks NextGen, he knows that defeat is not an option. Tevin has a bright future and he can achieve any goal that he sets for himself, not only in the NextGen program, but also in his life. Tevin represents how important it is to have a positive attitude and not focus on the negative.

When the NCWorks Program began in November 2017, Tevin was assigned to me, Career Coach Crystal Taylor. I contacted Tevin and asked him to come into the office to meet the new staff and share more about himself and his background. In that first meeting, Tevin came with his mother, who seemed much more interested in the program than Tevin. My initial thought was, “This is going to be a challenge!” Tevin did not seem motivated or interested in being in the program. However, the second meeting fared a lot better. Tevin arrived on time and communicated more openly. I worked with Tevin to revise his resume and create an Individual Employment Plan based on the new goals of completing his GED and obtaining employment. After the second meeting, it became clear that Tevin had finally let his guard down and could see that the NextGen program was there to help him accomplish his goals. Tevin not only went back to school at the Achievement Academy of Durham, but he also did everything necessary to make sure he was in attendance and pass all of his required tests. Tevin has since completed and surpassed almost every goal he set. With his determination, I am certain that Tevin will complete the few remaining goals and continue his success beyond the NextGen program.

Tevin has made tremendous strides from his first introduction to the YES program to becoming a successful participant in the NextGen program. Tevin has successfully completed two work experiences, one at Meineke Car Care Center and the other at Rebuilding Together of The Triangle, where he helped remodel homes. Tevin has passed his language arts, social studies, and reading tests, leaving only passing his math test before he can receive his GED. Tevin is currently enrolled in the Electrician Pre-Apprenticeship program given through JATC, where he plans to become an Electrician upon successful completion of the program. Tevin, has shown maturity and determination throughout this process. For example, during his work experiences, each morning Tevin had to walk at least one mile to reach a designated pick up spot so he wouldn’t miss work. Now that he has moved on to the apprenticeship program, he makes sure he has the appropriate bus passes to get him to his assignment on time every morning. Tevin has never complained about having to get up extra early to catch the bus, and he is always smiling and in good spirits. Tevin is always responsive and does everything asked of him. He exemplifies excellent communication skills with his Career Coach. Often when constructive criticism is offered, many people react negatively, but Tevin has consistently taken every situation and turned it into a positive result. Tevin truly reflects how to turn around any circumstance and create the life that you want to live.

Nathan Overby

Nathan Overby has been in the WIOA program since June of 2015, while attending the Achievement Academy of Durham. Nathan came to the program wanting to complete his GED, but he was nervous based on previous unsuccessful attempts to complete his education. His grandmother recalls bringing young Nathan for a kindergarten entry evaluation in the 1990s, and the teacher warning her that her grandson would never be capable of attending college. However, with WIOA tutoring and study skills, Nathan was able to overcome his fears, complete his GED and enroll in Durham Technical Community College.

Nathan is currently enrolled in Durham Technical Community College on the path towards a degree in mechanical engineering.

“At my old school, I would get off track but, at Achievement Academy, I could work with a tutor one-on-one, and I was actually able to focus and concentrate on what I was learning,” Nathan says, “now I get recognized for being successful.”

Nathan was proud to walk across the stage this past spring and receive his High School Equivalency.

Additionally, Nathan has been employed at a local retail store assisting customers and stocking while pursuing an occupational skills certificate.

Shaneequa Garrett

Shaneequa entered Lenoir Community College's WIOA Program in May of 2016. She dropped out of high school during her junior year due to a learning disability (ADHD). She stated she was overwhelmed and could not concentrate or stay focused while in class. She was a 23-year old single mother of two young sons whom, at the time, were homeless and living amongst friends and relatives. She desired to obtain her High School Equivalency Diploma and NAII Certificate. She stated, "I have hit rock bottom and need my GED in order to be self-sufficient and take care of my boys." Shaneequa scored basic skills deficient in math and struggled with math computation. Due to Shaneequa's circumstances, she was unable to attend classes on campus. While working part-time as a NAI, Shaneequa checked out math books and observed educational YouTube videos in order to prepare for the HSE tests. With sheer determination and a resolve to complete her goals, Shaneequa continued working, taking care of her children, and studying until she was ready to take the tests. She took her first test on June 18, 2016 and had passed three of the tests by November, 2016. On March 29, 2017 Shaneequa completed the remainder of her tests and officially obtained her High School Equivalency Diploma. Shaneequa Garrett graduated from Lenoir Community College in May of 2017. Shaneequa enjoys being around people and has outstanding social skills. She loves spending time with her children and helping others in any way possible. While enrolled in the WIOA Out-of-School Youth program, Shaneequa was determined, energetic, and goal-oriented, which enabled her to juggle work, school, and be a mother to her children. She has been an excellent role model to her family, co-workers, and friends. She has an out-going personality, is self-motivated, and displays good work ethics. With these positive characteristics and skills, Shaneequa was approved for paid work (WEX) at Caswell Center in Kinston, NC. She completed over 300 hours before being offered a full-time position. Shaneequa moved herself and children out of a homeless situation and into an apartment. She is now employed full-time and has two part-time jobs. Through the WIOA Work Experience Program (WEX), Shaneequa was employed part-time as a Nurse Aide I at Caswell Center in Kinston, NC on August 18, 2017. Due to her strong work ethics and positive attitude, Shaneequa was hired full-time in November 2017. Shaneequa is still a full-time employee at Caswell Center as a Developmental Tech I. She also works part-time during the week and on weekends as a home health care provider. Shaneequa has purchased a car and is in the process of being approved for a house loan. She stated, "If it wasn't for the WIOA program, I would still be living off the government."

Gabrielle Gaskill

Gabrielle first entered the Carteret County NCWorks Career Center as a shy young woman with criminal charges, and facing more, due to her previous addiction to drugs. All she wanted to do was get a job, but with her past, this was proving difficult. Unsure about enrolling into the WIOA Out-of-School Youth Program, her Youth Advisor was able to explain the services the program provides and encouraged her to try Work Experience. Gabrielle's first placement was as a Human Resource Assistant where she gained hands on experience in technology, clerical and administration, customer service, soft skills and other transferable skills needed for a career. Still undecided about her career path, her Youth Advisor set her up with a second work experience. While this employer was hesitant to bring on a justice served individual, they took a chance. Gabrielle excelled as an Administrative Assistant and was offered a full-time job at her worksite. However, by this time Gabrielle had realized that she wanted to help people get their lives back on track as she had done and declined the job offer to enroll in school for a degree in Human Service Technology. Her Youth Advisor was able to provide a third work experience within the human services field. Gabrielle assisted her supervisor in providing support to patients recovering from substance abuse, serving as the initial contact for clients and referring services. Other tasks included facilitating proper scheduling of appointments and acting as a liaison between client and Patient Coordinator. Recognizing Gabrielle's potential, her supervisors hired her to work in their counseling center. Gabrielle has exemplified excellence through this program. She has become a strong leader, leading by example, taking responsibility and being consistently reliable. While she has not yet completed her degree, she continues to engage in school and other WIOA funded activities and maintains a 4.0 grade point average. Gabrielle is an inspiration in her service to the program, her education and her work ethic.

Antonio Nichols

Antonio is an outstanding young man who entered the Gaston College NextGen Youth Program in September 2017 and who has from day one aspired to follow his career goals and work in the HVAC field. He has an easy going and positive demeanor while also having the work ethic of a hard worker.

He attended a job fair at Gaston County DSS in October 2017. He was introduced to the HR Director for GSM, Donna Caskey. She was interested in him for one of her permanent HVAC positions through OJT and scheduled him for an interview. His case manager assisted him by updating his resume, providing interviewing tips and completing a mock interview with him to insure that he was completely ready for his job interview. Donna had three different supervisors that completed interviews with him. The employer was impressed with him and he was scheduled for a 2nd interview.

In the meantime, Antonio's father decided that he didn't want Antonio living with him and changed the locks on the doors. His case manager worked with him to find alternative living arrangements, counseled him on how to talk to his dad about letting him move back in with him, and talked to Antonio's dad to see if he would meet with them to discuss a resolution to the situation that was making Antonio homeless. Antonio's dad refused to sit down with them and talk about letting Antonio move back in. Therefore, the case manager continued to assist him with finding a solution to his homelessness. Eventually, Antonio was ready to start his job at GSM as a commercial HVAC installer through OJT. The NextGen program gave him gas cards to use until he got his first check, purchased work boots for him, and also purchased all the tools he would need for his new position. Antonio started out at $13 per hour in his Commercial HVAC position. He showed great strides in his HVAC work performance, along with also showing great determination to continue and move up in his career. During his OJT period, he was increased to $16 per hour! In March 2018, he decided he was also interested in going back to school to get a certificate in HVAC so that he could better understand all the different aspects of HVAC and do an even better job for his employer.

NextGen has been happy to provide for his next steps for success in his journey with employment and training. We look forward to seeing what he accomplishes next!

Christian Newsome enrolled into the WIOA Program in September 2017. He had longed dreamed of becoming a truck driver but lacked opportunity, and resources to realize his dream. Hearing about the NEXTGEN program from friends, he came into the High Point NCWorks Career Center seeking services. Christian Newsome enrolled into the NEXTGEN Young Adult Program in September 2017.

Christian received orientation to the program, completed an initial skills and aptitude assessment and was connected to a Talent Development consultant to complete the enrollment process. As with many customers, Christian was somewhat disappointed to learn that he was not going to be immediately placed directly into truck drivers training. Christian received career guidance, completed additional career explorations assessments to ensure his interests aligned with his goals, and began career planning with his Development Consultant.

As Christian and his Development Consultant began the planning process, Christian learned that he had deficient literary skills, which he understood would need remediation prior to him attaining meaningful employment; particularly in his desired occupation. Christian and his Development Consultant prepared an Individualized Employment plan that included completing a series of work readiness workshops, as well as participating in basic skills classes that would help remediate his literacy deficiencies. Within a short period of time, Christian was able to upgrade his literacy skills and complete the work readiness workshop series that were prescribed and was ready to begin pursuing his dream of becoming a truck driver.

Christian received a scholarship through the NEXTGEN Youth Program to attend a Commercial Driver's License (CDL) training course at TransTech, Inc. in Winston Salem, NC in October 2017. He was excited to begin this training and remained committed to realizing his dream. With ease, Christian completed his training program on November 17, 2017 and almost immediately obtained his official CDL license on November 20, 2017. Christian, still eager to begin his career as a truck driver, met with his Development Consultant to construct a resume and prepare for interviews.

Christian was interviewed and hired by A & D Holdings, Inc. on January, 22 2018 earning $15.00 per hour as a Waste Technician Driver. Due to his age of 20, he could not receive his hazardous waste endorsement until turning 21, however, his employer promised him a wage increase of $22 to $27 per hour after that time. Christian's success was largely due in part to NCWorks/NEXTGEN providing him the proper career counseling and guidance, providing the proper assessment tools and helping to gain understanding about his career path and steps needed to be successful. Christian realized that a career plan did not necessarily mean "forever" to reach a goal.

Unfortunately, life presented some major hardships for Dorothy. Dorothy's mother was diagnosed with dementia which resulted in her placement in a nursing home. During this time, Dorothy's dad passed away due to stage four cancer. Due to her brother's disability, he moved to Pennsylvania to live with his grandma. Determined to finish school on time with her graduating class, Dorothy stayed in her home town. Having no other family to stay with at the age of 16, she was placed in the foster care system.

Dorothy was referred to NextGen/WIOA during this last year of her schooling at the Mayland Early College. She was required to complete an internship for her Human Services degree. Already working 30 hours a week to support herself, while attending high school and college classes, she was worried she would not be able to handle all the requirements to graduate.

While receiving ongoing guidance and support from her career advisor at the NCWorks Career Center, she participated in the work experience program which assisted her with a paid work experience meeting her class requirements, and monetarily enabling her to cut back on her work hours in order to balance her responsibilities. Her placement at DSS as a social work intern, not only provided additional work experience but also valuable employment resources.

Having successfully completed her educational requirements, during May 2018, Dorothy proudly graduated with her high school diploma, and her Associates Degree in Human Services. She is now interested in pursuing her next goal of a bachelor's degree.

Regia Williams

Regia Williams exemplifies excellence and professionalism in all aspects of her life. Though a child in foster care, Regia Williams overcame those odds. She excelled in high school, completing her coursework and obtaining her diploma 5 months early. While maintaining a 3.8 GPA and taking a heavy course load, Regia participated in cheer team and volunteered throughout the community. In 2015, Regia was named the NAACP Youth of the Year. From 2014 to 2017, she volunteered daily during the school year and worked as a camp counselor over the summers at the Boys and Girls Club. Actively participating in the Fountain of Life Outreach Ministry at her Church since June of 2014, Regia works with other members to expand the ministry. Regia is also a member of the Praise Team at her Church where she helps to coordinate the entire Sunday service every 5th Sunday, including the sermon. Even with her busy schedule, Regia is finding time to build her Church's website. Since enrolling with the NCWorks NextGen program in January, Regia has gone above and beyond, completing a two week long HRD class, and enrolling in the Tech Hire program at the local community college, and participating in a Work Experience, where she has been praised for her professionalism and dedication. Regia has overcome the hardships that foster care children face and has made a strong commitment to ensuring a bright future for herself. She cares deeply about her community and actively works to make a positive impact on it.

Regia expresses a strong interest in the IT field and in helping others, including animals. Regia came into the program extremely driven, wanting to take advantage of everything the program had to offer. Being a young high school graduate, Regia did need some assistance with soft skills. She attended the HRD Course, Working Smart, where she excelled actively participated in all the activities presented during the class. When first enrolled, Regia took the initiative to complete our resume workshop. Through the workshop, Regia not only got a professional resume, but she also obtained the skills to build her resume in the future. Regia eagerly enrolled in a work experience at a local animal shelter. Though not in her initially desired career pathway, Regia has a love for animals that she wanted the opportunity to experience potentially working with them. Prior to starting the work experience, Regia job shadowed, ensuring that the position was something she would enjoy.

After completion of work experience at the Granville Animal Shelter they hired her part-time. As stated previously, Regia is waiting to take advantage of the Tech Hire program offered at Vance-Granville Community College.

Aaron Jacobs

Aaron Jacobs enrolled into the WIOA Out-of-School Youth Program at Bladen Community College in December 2017.

Aaron was seeking financial assistance with returning to school to complete his Associate Degree as a Mechanical Engineer at Cape Fear Community College.

Aaron was persistent with his goals and was willing to work hard to achieve them. Aaron lives with his grandparents, who were unable to provide him with the financial support he needed to complete his degree. The WIOA Youth Program assisted Aaron with supportive services; such as books and travel assistance.

This provided him the resources to return to school for the spring semester of 2018. In February 2018, Aaron spoke with the WIOA Youth Program Specialist, about participating in an internship that would allow him to gain hands on experience in his career field as a Mechanical Engineer. The WIOA Program Specialist assisted Aaron with an internship placement with Eddie's Wrecker Service in Bolton NC. Aaron worked hard and successfully completed the internship placement on June 1, 2018. Upon completion of placement he was offered a permanent position, as Diesel Engine Specialist, which he gladly accepted. While enrolled in the WIOA

Kimberlee Sessoms

Bladen Community College student Kimberlee Sessoms is not afraid of a challenge. In May, she graduated as a Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) and received her high school diploma through the college readiness program.

“My dad and grandparents were my inspiration,” remarked Sessoms. “My dad died two years ago, and he wanted me to get an education.”

In middle school, Sessoms was an excellent student. In the seventh grade, she tested into the Duke University Talent Identification Program (TIP), and was always at the top of her class. But high school presented Sessoms with a different environment and difficult personal choices. She never finished high school. “I just made bad decisions,” she stated. “I took the wrong road.” Over the next year, she worked on her high school credentials at Bladen Community College twice, never completing the program. “I wanted so much to make my dad and grandparents proud of me,” recounted Sessoms, so she enrolled again in a high school credentialing class at BCC. While she was working at a gas station, a friend’s mother encouraged her to consider taking the CNA classes while working on her GED.

Sessoms remembered the journey. “It was hard. My grandparents drove me to and from class every day.”

But weeks before she would graduate, her grandmother became ill and died on the same day that Sessoms finished her last class at BCC.

“It’s been such a long process,” she stated. “But I have tried really hard to turn my life around and that is what matters to me.”

Travis Locklear, director for college readiness described Sessoms’ commitment as inspirational to both students and faculty.

“Kimberlee has really persevered,” he remarked. “She is a great example to others.”

Sessoms success was enhanced by the WIOA Out-of-School Youth Program. The initiative was able to purchase books and nursing supplies, provide travel to and from the college, and pay for Sessoms’ high school diploma tests.

While enrolled in the WIOA Youth Program, Sessoms participated in a variety of leadership activities including financial literacy, work ethics training, resume writing, the application process, and other regional events sponsored by the Lumber River Council of Government Youth Services.

Jennifer Farris, WIOA Youth Program Specialist, stated “Kim has a very pleasant personality and an eagerness to learn new skills to advance herself and strive toward success.”

Through the efforts of the WIOA, Sessoms is now employed as a Certified Nursing Assistant I with Bladen East Health and Rehabilitation.

Kyle Walters

Kyle enrolled into WIOA services in September 2015 after dropping out of high school. He stated school was too much of a struggle. Kyle was basic skills deficient in both math and reading. He was referred to the WIOA Program from one of his Counselor’s at the high school.

Staff visited Kyle at home and spoke with him and his mother concerning Kyle returning back to high school. After several weeks of pursuing Kyle to make a decision, he decided to go to the local Alternative School to pursue his high school diploma, because he had higher aspirations for himself to become a Merchant Marine. Kyle persevered once he entered the school. He started attending remediation classes that were offered at the Alternative School and attended Partners In Ministry afterschool tutoring two days a week, to help increase his literacy/numeracy scores. Partners In Ministry setup one-on-one sessions with Kyle to help him overcome his deficiencies he had. It was difficult for him at first but the consistency of meeting with the instructor coupled with the support of the afterschool tutoring sessions helped him to increase his scores. By the end of the school year Kyle was on the A/B honor roll list and promoted to the 12th grade.

Kyle began to utilize his strength for leadership by encouraging others to remain focused and pursue their high school diploma, despite their circumstances. The staff at the high school soon saw his leadership abilities and offered him a role as Youth Ambassador. In June 2017 Kyle graduated high school, maintain his A/B status and making the Distinguished List.

The services Kyle received from the program did not stop there. Through his experience with accomplishing his high school diploma he discovered his career pathway. Through his experience of being a Youth Ambassador he came to realize how much he liked helping other people. He made arrangements to speak with a recruiter and then scored well enough on the ASVAB test to enter the Marine Corp. He joined the Marines in October of 2017 and said he loves it. He's now working hard to become a Merchant Marine. He has already been promoted to a Military Police Officer (MPO). Kyle was asked about how he feels about his accomplishments, he said, "I am proud". He continues to encourage his peers to work hard to pursue their goals to this day. We here at Partners In Ministry, are proud of Kyle Walters and all of his accomplishments and are looking forward to hearing from him soon that he is now a Merchant Marine. Without the WIOA Programs youth, such as Kyle, would not have the services available to help them transition through everyday life struggles.

Antoin McNeill

Antoin McNeill is one of the youth that had a successful transition from Scotland County Schools to Partners in ministry. Antoin is a young African American male that has faced several barriers throughout his life. He currently has four children ranging from five years old to seven months old. His one and only purpose is to provide for his family. At one point they were homeless living day by day out of a motel.

Throughout his experience with the WIOA program he has completed two work experiences, one with Willow Place Assist Living and Partners in Ministry. He also received support services through the program purchasing his Work Keys testing and work uniforms for his placement at Willow Place.

Antoin gained meaningful employment with Perdue Farms about a year and a half ago. He started out making $10.50 an hour. He gained a promotion to back up line leader after being there for six months. After being employed for almost a year he was promoted again to a Mentor. With this promotion came a pay raise to $11.00 an hour. He will also be receiving another raise in the coming months to $13.75 an hour. With his hard work and determination he was able to find a home for rent and moved his family to a better house.

Perdue noticed his potential and his barriers. They invested in him and helped him to become the successful young father that he is today. Along with his job duties he also presents to new employees. He gives a presentation on new perspective employees on what Perdue can do for you. He talks about his life and hardships and how, through Perdue has been able to become successful.

Sasha Houle

Few people have a love for life like Sasha Houle. Her lightheartedness and joyful spirit radiate from her personality. Although she has faced obstacles throughout her life that would have beaten-down and defeated most people; she is not resentful or bitter. To the contrary, rather than let them define her, Sasha has met challenges head-on, with strength, and determination.

In October, Sasha sought help in applying for a position as a FEMA Call Center Agent. The position entailed taking phone calls from the victims of Hurricanes Harvey and Irma and directing them to the appropriate agencies. She had a phone interview with a company representative. Even in this type of interview, her caring nature was evident. The FEMA contractor hired her that day. Sasha worked full time, demonstrating compassion and kindness to those in need. In addition, through the WIOA NCWorks NextGen Youth Intervention program, she finished Nursing Assistant Training. Her goal is to work for a hospital in Labor and Delivery.

Sasha is such a positive influence to those around her; motivating and encouraging them to be the best they can be. She exemplifies resilience, dedication, and resolve. Her strength of character and service-oriented disposition makes her an excellent role model for young and old alike.

Frankie Frasure

Frankie demonstrated the drive to succeed, but needed direction. Coming from a family environment of alcoholism and incarceration, trust was not easy for him. His living situation was impossible and he felt unwanted. Transportation was an issue for him, but through WIOA-supported work experience, his life began to turn around. He first worked as a coach's assistant where he helped setting up and breaking down track meets. After finding reliable transportation his work experience continued with Ingles Markets. He developed new friendships and relationships with people he would have never known.

After graduating from high school, Frankie had another setback with his living situation and was unable to continue his education as planned. Fortunately, a friend offered him a place to stay, his situation improved, a door opened where he was able to move on, and he enrolled in college. Once again, Frankie was excelling at Asheville-Buncombe Technical Community College and working part-time. When he graduates from post-secondary school, he will have an Associate's Degree in Health and Fitness Science.

During his free time, Frankie boxes and works out to relieve stress. He has the desire to mentor other youth to guide them to overcome life's challenges. Frankie is an amazing story of how WIOA opens doors for youth that would never have had those options.

Latray Simpson

Latray is 20 years old, native of Roper, NC and graduated from Plymouth High School in 2015. After graduation, Latray had a difficult time finding employment which he attributed to his lack of workplace skills and age. He came to the NCWorks Career Center in Edenton to inquire about an open position, but he wasn't eligible for the position due to lack of work experience. This was an ongoing problem for other jobs he applied for. At the Career Center, he was introduced to NextGen services to start building the skills he needed to start a career.

After enrollment in NextGen, Latray became very active in the program. He started attending tutoring through Sylvan to boost his math and reading skills and completed the Working Smart Curriculum to improve his soft skills in preparation for future employment. He also attended the NC Annual Youth Summit in 2016 and 2017 along with college and business tours.

Latray always had an interest in automotive work and with the help of his father restored a few cars. His NextGen Career Advisor told him to capitalize on his interest and skills and assisted him with enrolling at Lenoir Community College in the Automotive Body Repair Certificate Program. He did well in the program and honed his skills by participating in a work experience at Feyer Ford Collision and Repair Shop in Plymouth during Spring break and weekends. As a result of his hard work, skills and professionalism displayed during his work experience, he secured a position with Feyer Ford Collision and Repair Shop upon graduation with his certificate in Auto Body Repair.

Destiny Satterwhite

Destiny Sattwerwhite learned about the NextGen Youth Program from the Head Start program her child attended. "There was a speaker that came to speak with us about resources available and she referred me to the Rockingham NextGen Youth Program to help me achieve my goals," says Destiny.

Some of the services Destiny was introduced to include career coaching, mock interviewing, and resume writing. Destiny says these services helped her land several job interviews and offers.

Destiny says participating in the NextGen Youth Program did more than help her career. "Life was stressful and I didn't know how I was going to achieve my ultimate goal of becoming an esthetician." The NextGen Youth Program helped her find that direction. "I am at ease because my biggest challenges are behind me."

After participating in the NextGen Youth Program, Destiny earned her Esthetician license and landed a job at Ulta in Burlington.

She says the NextGen Youth Program team helped make this all possible. "I haven't come in contact with any other people that have had a heart to help like Danielle and Rhonda. These ladies make it their business to make sure they provided me with all that I needed, without their help and expertise I would not be where I am today."

Mariana Rodriguez

Mariana has been in the Piedmont Triad Regional Workforce Development Board NextGen Youth Program since 2016, while in the program Mariana has earned her certification in phlebotomy and will be graduating with a degree in surgical technology. Mariana has been able to overcome and persevere through so many road blocks all while being a single mother of a 2 year old child.

During Mariana's surgical tech courses and clinicals, she participated in work experience at the Goodwill in Mayodan. Several days of the week Mariana would not be able to see her child because she was either working, in class or clinicals. Mariana was able to uphold her values and determination during this time. So much so that the surgery team at Wake Forrest Baptist Hospital Women's Center has requested that Mariana learn and study with their team, they have also been holding a position open for her. As soon as she graduates and passes the state exam, there will be a position for her.

Mariana is an intelligent and driven young woman who I would describe as someone who has 'GRIT' -courage and resolve, accomplishing a goal over an extended period of time despite experiences with failure and adversity.

Miranda Avis

Miranda Avis is an in school student who has been involved in the Cleveland County WIOA Youth Program this school year. She was referred to us by staff at Burns High School.

Miranda was considered homeless through the McKinney-Vento Act, and was living with a teacher who had taken her in. Although she struggled in reading and math, Miranda was clearly a good student with determination and drive. She worked hard to increase in those areas and has consistently earned good grades in school.

Miranda was interested in working, but was limited due to her circumstances. We decided to place her in a work experience at her school where transportation would not be an issue. Miranda worked in the afternoons and evenings after school as a custodian, and continues to work this summer.

She graduated from Burns in June, and has been accepted into college at Western Carolina University where she will study business in the fall. She has earned various scholarships that will help her while there. Miranda did not let her struggles and limitations deter her, and she continues to work hard and focus on her goals.

Destiny Mader

Destiny Mader was selected to receive the 2017 Governor's NCWorks award of distinction as an "Outstanding Young Adult". She is a positive role model for North Carolinas young adults. She has an unfailing dedication, commitment and perseverance to self-improvement and career attainment.

Her story began in a less than stable home environment. She struggled with poverty and homelessness, moving from place to place and hopping from school to school. The current man of the house did not work and tension over the lack of income remained constant. Destiny was badgered by him to quit school and get a job.

The home environment became too strained, and Destiny dropped out of school and out of the house. She packed her sleeping bag and called a spot under a Main Street bridge her home.

Destiny's perseverance never died. She landed a job at McDonald's and someone saw the leadership potential she possessed and she began training for management. With this leadership role with McDonald's, Destiny realized a glimmer of ability.

She was curious about the Manufacturing Certification class. Six weeks later she graduated with several national certifications and her GED. She was in class five to six hours daily, and then worked all night. In her "spare time" Destiny performed her Work Based Learning at the NCWorks Center 20 hours a week. She found her passion in teaching, and rolled up her sleeves to assist in the classroom.

A sponge for learning and role model of doing what's right, she serves as a role model to other students and patrons at the Center, modeling those ideal traits desired by employers. She is mature beyond her young age. Destiny now assists at McDowell Technical Community College – in office work, classrooms and wherever she is needed. She takes it upon herself to master new systems and materials. Most notable, however, is her compassion in helping others. Destiny is currently enrolled in Web Technology at McDowell Technical Community College. She has been inducted in the Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society and the National Vocational Honor Society. She is comfortable providing one-on-one tutoring or facing an entire group. She has spoken to civic groups about the services of the Center and has attended Workforce Pipeline meetings. She has served on a special team to address a technological need for a local major industry, after a lifetime of rejection, poverty and failures. She was a guest speaker at the "NC Youth Summit" this past spring and enjoyed associating and relating with her peers.

She has discovered her niche in life and her future is wide open. She is truly a success story of what a hand up mixed with encouragement and motivation can do for a person.

Shaqwanda Moore

Shaqwanda Moore came to NCWorks as a single mother working part-time, barely making ends meet. She knew she had to make a change.

Shaqwanda knew she loved working with the public and accepted an on-the-job training opportunity with Metropolitan Property Management in the Accounting/Reception Department. Shaqwanda began working at Metropolitan in February of 2017 and became a full-time employee in July.

While working at Metropolitan, Shaqwanda learned their filing systems, data entry system, how to manage rental properties, state and federal laws pertaining to property management, accounts receivables and accounts payables procedure, bank deposits and refunds and much more. She was able to attend specialized training (Southeast Affordable Housing Management Association Training) to upgrade her knowledge of the field.

Today, Shaqwanda feels she is finally able to take a deep breath knowing she is financially stable and no longer living paycheck to paycheck. She is able to better provide for her 6 year old son and they are moving into a larger space at the end of the month. Now that she is working a steady schedule she is able to spend more quality time with her son. Shaqwanda concludes she is healthier and happier now that she has gotten back in the gym and has been working on her financial, physical, mental, and spiritual well-being.

We congratulate Shaqwanda on her successes and celebrate with her - in that we could play a small part in helping her succeed and achieve her goals.

Anthony Harlan

Anthony "Skylar" Harlan applied for the Workforce Innovations and Opportunity Act (WIOA) program on June 15, 2016. At the age of 16, Skylar's life turned upside down when his mother passed away. During this time, Skylar had become a foster child and eventually was adopted by his grandmother.

Skylar experienced a very hard time coping with the passing of his mother. Many areas of his life were affected. His grades decreased and his behavior escalated to a point where his grandmother kicked him out the day he turned 18.

Skylar, still enrolled in his senior year of high school, became homeless. His high school guidance counselor assisted with placing Skylar in a shelter as well as referring him to the WIOA young adult program.

Finally, Skylar recognized potential in life and felt he was needed so he fought hard to succeed with the intent to graduate high school and hopefully join the Navy. His determination and willpower was evident when Skylar graduated Southwestern High School in June of 2017 and immediately met with the Navy recruiters to discuss military options.

She completed training May 8, 2017, Central Carolina Community College, earning her LPN Diploma.

She started working for Pine Needle Nursing Home, June 2017, earning $18.00 an hour. Dedication and hard work paid off because she has completed training and has gained sustainable employment in less than a year with a higher salary and benefits.

Dericka Farley

At the age of 23 and with two young children, Dericka Farley of Graham County decided she needed to return to school to obtain her GED. She left high school after finishing the eleventh grade. Her primary motivation for getting back into the classroom was to be able to demonstrate to her children that no matter what your age, you can always do something to change the course of your life.

At 23, Dericka was older than most of the other GED students so it took courage for her to take that big first step. She was enrolled in the WIOA Youth Program on February 20, 2018, with an aggressive goal of obtaining her GED by March 31, 2018. Dericka jumped in with both feet, attending class as much as possible while continuing to care for her children.

She worked consistently with her instructor and studied hard. On March 21, 2018, ten days before her goal, Dericka obtained her GED. On May 12, 2018, she confidently walked across the stage at Tri-County Community College in cap and gown to receive her diploma amidst the cheers of her family members. Dericka is currently a full-time college student, with a long-term goal of becoming a registered nurse.

Lisa Cates

My name is Lisa Cates and I am currently 18 years old. When Brookely Nicholson, my WIOA case manager, asked me to share my story I was unsure how far to go back; so after some thought I decided to go back enough to emphasize how Haywood Community Learning Center and the WIOA program changed my life.

My family was homeless and my mother walked out of the situation when I was young. I moved out from under my parents at the age of 15. It was necessary that I get on my feet and away from my parents due to an unhealthy lifestyle that I did not want. I was working full time at Xaxby's and attending Haywood Early College. After 2 ½ years at Haywood Early College I decided to drop out because the school and work load was too much. In December of 2016 I enrolled at Haywood Community Learning Center and by January I was taking classes and learning at my own pace. I had a schedule that worked around my busy job and provided me with the support and encouragement that I needed to move forward with my education.

Brookely saw my situation and talked with me about the WIOA program and how it could help me get on my feet and have stability which is something I have never had before. I have always wanted to expand my knowledge in the Culinary Arts field and thus Brookely organized me a paid internship with a successful and prestigious local restaurant, The Sweet Onion. WIOA paid for all my uniforms needed for my internship such as shirts and nonskid shoes. WIOA also assisted me with gas money to and from school when needed.

As I continued to progress in my high school courses the Sweet Onion restaurant saw my potential and offered me full-time work by paying the remaining part of my salary since WIOA could only pay for 25 hours a week. WIOA provided me another opportunity by paying for me to take a class and receiving four certificates that would advance my culinary skills as well as making me more qualified. The certificates included: NIMS of basic machinery, Working Smart, and two levels of OSHA certificates. I was the youngest participant in Haywood County to ever receive these certificates.

I was able to put my 2 week notice in at Zaxby's due to the Sweet Onion offering me a full time job after my internship ended. I loved my job at the Sweet Onion and the people I worked with. I learned a great deal about the culinary field through the owner and chef who had traveled all around the world making unique dishes.

I felt like my life was heading in a completely new direction than it was 6 months prior, and I wasn't struggling in a mountain of unattainable school work that seemed pointless. I was learning things from the teachers and staff at HCLC that were useful like programs called EVERFI. EVERFI taught me the difference between mortgages and rent, different bank accounts, and interests that can accrue on accounts. I was able to support myself through working at the Sweet Onion and received my high school diploma in June 2017.

I graduated an entire year early with my high school diploma and now I have my own apartment where I support myself and my two younger siblings and even drive. I am trying to enroll at Haywood Community College to complete my last six classes for my associate's degree and then I plan to become a business major where I can create my own business or restaurant one day. I am still working with Brookely to assist me with college applications, Pell Grant, Unaccompanied youth form, and financial Aid applications. I recommend HCLC and the WIOA program to all my friends that are struggling in their traditional public school. Without HCLC and the WIOA program I would not have been able to obtain my high school diploma, find a job I enjoy, go to college, be independent, and financially stable. The program truly cares about every student and understands the difficult situations youth encounter. WIOA program helped me prepare for my future as well as provided me opportunities I would not have otherwise had and HCLC provided me a way to better my future through my high school diploma.

Sheneka McNeill

In 2015, Sheneka McNeill was an underemployed, twenty year old high school graduate, who was dealing with some serious issues in her home life. She lacked social skills, was extremely shy, and had basic skills deficiencies in both reading and math. When Sheneka decided that she did not want to spend the rest of her life working a part-time job with no opportunities for advancement, she enrolled into the WIOA Young Adult and Youth Program at the Harnett County Department of Workforce Development in Lillington, NC.

After enrolling, Sheneka's case manager, Anitra Hart, discovered she was deficient in both basic math and reading skills. So Mrs. Hart assisted Sheneka with enrolling into the Central Carolina Community College (CCCC) Career Readiness Certificate (CRC) program. This program allowed Sheneka to improve her math and reading skills, and upon completion of the course, she earned a Silver CRC Certificate.

After Sheneka earned her CRC, she enrolled into CCCC to pursue an Associate's Degree in Early Childhood Education. Sheneka loves children and is looking forward to one day becoming a preschool teacher. With that stated, Mrs. Hart ensured that Sheneka received some hands on experience working with children by placing her in work experience opportunities with Kidd's Place Too as a childcare worker, and with the Dunn Police Athletic League (PAL) as an Enrichment Instructor Assistant.

In addition to the work experience and education Sheneka was gaining, Mrs. Hart helped her overcome her shyness and poor communication skills by encouraging her participation in various Leadership Development activities. Sheneka attended the TSWDB Young Adult and Youth Rally, the Chick Fil-A Customer Service Training, the NC Youth Summit, and became the Youth Chair of the Standing Youth Committee for the TSWDB. In her role as Chair, Sheneka assists in organizing various community service projects for the WIOA Harnett County Youth participants, helps with the planning of the Annual Youth Banquet, and attends all leadership activities for the youth and young adults. Because of this, Sheneka has become much more sociable with people and is now a leader amongst her WIOA program peers. She has also gained a deeper understanding of the importance of community service projects.

Currently, Sheneka is still working towards her degree, and has just finished up her work experience with Dunn PAL. Due to her hard work and determination as an Enrichment Instructor Assistant with the organization, Sheneka has been offered a permanent position! This young lady is a wonderful example of why the WIOA Young Adult and Youth program is so important to our local area, and we are proud to have her as a member of our community.

Daisha Dupree

Daisha is a young lady with many obstacles during the course of her young life. Mental health issues, neglect, and homelessness are only a few. She assumed the role of “parent” to her 2 younger siblings, after being abandoned by their mother. This responsibility fell on Daisha while a student herself.

She was able to live with multiple friends as she tried to provide a stable environment for her younger siblings. There were few other family member to turn to, some of which would not provide any help. Her great aunt did take her and siblings in for a short time, ensuring that they were provided care.

After some time, Daisha’s mother returned and wanted to reunite with her children. However, the happy reunion would only last a few months, as Daisha’s mother began to become abusive towards her children. Furthermore, the great aunt that once stepped in and cared for them had passed away leaving Daisha and her siblings in a hopeless situation.

After some time, Daisha was referred, by a school social worker, to the WIOA youth program, to speak with someone regarding her circumstances and to seek assistance changing her current situation. Phyllis Neville, WIOA Coordinator, representing Weldon STEM High School Career Academies (WSHSCA) enrolled Daisha into WIOA and immediately began assisting Daisha overcome some of her barriers. Daisha received assistance in job searching, skill building, resume writing, and workplace etiquette.

With assistance from WIOA Daisha was able to find employment at Crackle Barrel as a waitress, all while completing multiple community service projects, tutoring elementary aged children, and serving as senior class president at WSHSCA.

In the midst of it all, she managed to find time to prepare for college and has been accepted into Chowan University where she will start her journey fall 2018. She plans to major in Psychology, with plans to pursue a Master’s Degree in Child Psychology. Her desire is to work with children that have been emotionally and physically abused. She is motivated to changing the lives of those that may suffer in some of the same situations she has overcome. She understands the impact a positive and caring adult can have on the life of a young person who may feel hopeless.

OIC, Inc Armored Eagles Robotics Team

During this triumphant break into the robotics world, students from Edgecombe and Nash Counties had the opportunity to meet with other like-minded students from North Carolina. FIRST (For Inspiration & Recognition in Science & Technology) competitions grant students adult-like experiences as gracious professionals by working with people and businesses in technology applications. This experience encourages high-quality work, emphasizes the value of working with others and respecting individuals and the community. Lorenzo Wilkins, Founder and CEO of Compass Youth Centers, introduced OIC to the FIRST Robotics Competition. FIRST convenes a national network of schools, organizations and industries to promote STEM programming to students of all ages and backgrounds.

Two and a half months ago when the OIC, Turning Point Workforce Development, NCWorks NextGen, and Compass Youth Center joined forces, little did we know that we would produce a Winning Team! Coupled with the Bridge Builder Foundation, young men from Manhood Monday Mentor Program accepted the challenge and the work began. Seven weeks later they had a working and functional Robot, and the team named Armored Eagles, Team 6215, was up and running. We assigned Dr. Daud Cole, a Scientist with our Organization, to take the lead and build the Team, and build he did. He brought on board Mr. Harold Lynch, an Electrical Engineer from Edgecombe Community College, and Mr. Chauncey Perry, Computer Science Engineer, from the Bridge Builder Foundation. Armored Eagles adventure and training took us to Durham, NC, where they joined forces with the Durham Academy of Math and Science robotics team 900 and a relationship was formed. The training and learning curve was steep for the Armored Eagles, as a first year Team, but definitely not a bridge too far for the students. They were used to challenges, steep learning curves, difficult situations, and always having to perform under enormous stress. At the first Competition, there were 32 other teams ready to compete in the FIRST Power Up Robotics Competition at the Pitt County Event in the Gymnasium on the East Carolina University's Campus. The Event was three days with a full day and a half of Arcade Competition. The Armored Eagles watched the Winner's Board as they move up and down the rankings. At the end of the Competition on Sunday, they found themselves in the playoffs with a chance to move on if selected in an Alliance with other Teams. When selection was over they were chosen to move on into the finals. When the final match was over the Armored Eagles and their Alliance were victorious (1st Place). The Team was geared up for the next competition in Forsyth County Event at the Winston-Salem Fair Grounds. This event was also three days with a full day and a half of Arcade Competition. The Armored Eagles won the Judges Award and qualified to compete in the State Championship held at Campbell University. The team won the Judges Award at the State Championships. We had an outstanding season as a first year team and looking forward to doing bigger and better things next season.

Daniel Duckworth

Daniel Duckworth came into the Burke NCWorks Career Center needing job training. Daniel was having a difficult time finding employment due to a disability, being basic skills deficient, and lacking any work experience. As part of the NEXTGen Youth/Young Adult program, Daniel was placed in a work experience opportunity with Blue Ridge Striping in Valdese where he found his niche driving the crash truck for the road painting crew.

Over the past several months, Daniel has increased his literacy skills by over 5 grade levels. He has shown significant growth in his work skills, social skills, communication skills, problem solving abilities, and conflict resolution. Daniel is also self-supporting now and no longer needing disability. At the end of his work experience, he was hired on full-time with Blue Ridge Striping.

William Pruitt

William Pruitt came in to WIOA needing job training. He was placed with Goodwill Career Connections as part of the WIOA's Work Experience Program. This was William's first job ever! He was placed as an environmental specialist. Sandy Williams, the manager of Goodwill took William under her wing and included him on big decisions. Goodwill intended to open a brand new facility next to William's worksite and needed to get ideas for their grand opening. William suggested that Goodwill support its local High School ROTC by allowing them to come and present the flag at the opening. Now, this idea has spread throughout Goodwill, as they are including ROTC groups all over the state for the ceremonies. William successfully completed the Manufacturing Academy in November and was vigilant in his employment. Within a week William had an interview lined up with Sarstedt and was soon offered a job as a quality inspector! This is Will's first week of work and he is very excited about stepping into the workforce.

William also intends to further his education this January by attending the Mechatronics Fundamentals course at CVCC.
