

Post-politics, Pandemic and Complexity Paralysis

Does workforce remain the key to competitiveness?

Presented By:

Ted Abernathy

Ted has 40 years of experience in directing local and regional economic development and workforce development programs and later as CEO of a leading economic policy thinktank.

SAVE-THE-DATE

May 13, 2021

10:00 am -12:00 (noon)

Virtual meeting

The past 15 months have reset business realities, consumer norms and worker expectations. Economic developers are scrambling to adjust to a new reality where standards have changed, and workforce is more important than ever. Successful places will successfully meld Economic Development, Workforce Development, Community Development. This session will suggest 10 ways to be successful and three ways to fail.

More details coming soon. . .